

Floppy Old Clown

From Feeling The Beat

Here comes a floppy old clown
With floppy arms and legs,
He waves his arms
And he nods his head.
His fingers are loose
And so are his shoes,
And this is what the old clown says:

“I can walk forwards and I can walk back,
Then I turn around and I clap, clap, clap.
I can walk forwards and I can walk back,
Then I turn around and I clap, clap, clap.”

Here comes Pinocchio
With stiff arms and legs,
He waves his arms
And he nods his head,
His fingers are glued
And so are his shoes,
And this is what Pinocchio says:

“I can walk forwards and I can walk back,
Then I turn around and I clap, clap, clap.
I can walk forwards and I can walk back,
Then I turn around and I clap, clap, clap.”

Here comes a floppy old clown
With floppy arms and legs,
He waves his arms
And he nods his head.
His fingers are loose
And so are his shoes,
And this is what the old clown says:

“I can walk forwards and I can walk back...”

Here comes Pinocchio
With stiff arms and legs,
He waves his arms
And he nods his head,
His fingers are glued
And so are his shoes,
And this is what Pinocchio says:

“I can walk forwards and I can walk back...”

By Janet Channon